In the context of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its 17 SDGs, as well as the International Day of Living Together in Peace, under reference in resolution A/RES/72/130, both adopted by the 193 Member States of the United Nations, AISA International NGO has decided to devote its efforts to education for the culture of peace from kindergarten to university.

Objective 4 of the 2030 Sustainable Development Program states:

“Achieving a quality education is the foundation for improving people’s lives and sustainable development. In addition to improving their quality of life, access to inclusive and equitable education can help to empower local populations the tools needed to develop innovative solutions to the world’s biggest problems.”

As for target 4.7 of the same program, it specifies:

“By 2030, ensure that all students acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to promote sustainable development, including through education for sustainable development and lifestyles, human rights, gender equality, the promotion of a culture of peace and non-violence, global citizenship and the appreciation of cultural diversity and the contribution of culture to sustainable development.”
